David Gordichuk To Attend Black Hawk Training Camp

LAC LA BICHE — Seventeen-year-old David Gordichuk of Lac la Biche, who played Junior Hockey with the Moose Jaw Canucks last season, will have the opportunity of meeting Big League professionals when he attends the Chicago Blackhawks' training camp at Pembroke, Ont., September 7 to 14, 1952.

Tiny Thompson, scout for the Chicago club, followed the Moose Jaw Canucks' junior team on their road trip last season. He selected Gordichuk and four other junior league hockey players from Western Canada to attend the Black Hawk training camp. Mr. Thompson, on a recent visit to Lac la Biche, personally interviewed David's parents with regard to the opportunities the experience will afford David, and was successful in gaining their permission for the trip.

David will report to Sid Abel, coach of the Chicago Black Hawks, at Pembroke, Ontario, September 7, 1952, to begin training at their camp. All expenses will be paid by the Black Hawks Club, as approved by their manager Bill Tobin.

The selection of promising junior hockey players to attend their training camp is part of a long range plan executed by the Black Hawk Club to assure better future material for big league hockey.

At the camp Gordichuk will witness the work-outs of many professional hockey stars of the Black Hawk Club. The training and experience he will gain will undoubtedly be an asset in preparation for the future. As a result of the opportunity he will discover his own capacity as a hockey player, moreover, if his showing is good, the road will be open for his advancement.

In an interview, Gordichuk expressed his gratitude and anticipation for the forthcoming trip to Pembroke. When questioned with regard to his plans for the coming hockey season, he said that he will likely be playing with George Vogan's Moose Jaw Canucks again this winter.

Gordichuk credits most of his knowledge of hockey to the basic experience that he gained in his native town of Willingdon, Alta., a small centre approximately 65 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Erickson Takes First Prize In Open Archery Tournament

GOOSE LAKE — Herbert Erickson of Goose Lake returned home after spending a week at the eighth Alberta Archery Tournament at Calgary. He came first in the clout shoot bringing home the trophy which is a lovely bronze shield mounted on a walnut base. He came third and fourth in two other events. He reports having a most enjoyable time.

The Canadian Archery Championship Tournament for 1953 will be held in Calgary. Four neighboring states, Washington, Idaho, Montana and North Dakota, will also participate. The Archery Association would like to hold this forthcoming event at Banff, but due to the rocky terrain, which would cause a great breakage of arrows, it was decided to hold it at Calgary.

The Eighth Annual Alberta Open Archery Tournament was held at Calgary, with the following results:

Target, double American—1st, Fred Carson, Great Falls, Montana, score 1284; 2nd, Wally Bunkall, Edmonton, 1271; 3rd, Herbert Erickson, Goose Lake, Alberta, 1234.

Clout—1st, Herbert Erickson, score 185; 2nd, Fred Carson, 183; 3rd, Bill Payden, Great Falls, Montana, 147.

"Big Island Proposed Provincial Park"

LAC LA BICHE — Mr. T. W. Dalkin, Director of the Technical Division, Department of Lands and Forests; Mr. V. A. Wood, Director of Lands, and Mr. J. Harvie, former Deputy-Minister of Lands and Forests, met with a committee of local business men here August 28, to discuss the prospects of converting "Big Island" (an island lying off Shelton Point in Lac la Biche), into a Provincial Park.

The three men travelled from Edmonton to Lac la Biche by automobile, and were accompanied out to the island by members of the town council and H. Lobay, M.L.A. for the Lac la Biche constituency, in the Kay-Vi-Lena, a pleasure boat owned by Mr. Joe Strimbiski. The party spent approximately two hours at the island reviewing its possibilities as a park. Upon returning they retired to the Town Hall where further discussions were carried on concerning the planning of the park. Construction of a golf course, tennis courts, and baseball diamond, the reserving of lots for the erection of summer cabins, and a great many other details were subjects of discourse. The most importance was given, however, to the means of access to the island, as it is evident that plans for completion of the park would necessitate the building of a road to the site.

It was taken under consideration that such a road would best be constructed along the lake shore to a point where it could be continued into the lake over a sand bar stretching out from Sheltons' Point. The sand bar almost completely joins the island with the mainland at this point, except for a narrow passage that has been scooped out to allow boats to go through. It is proposed that this part be spanned by a small bridge. Government engineers estimate that the construction would require an appropriation of approximately $15,000, including the building of the road on the mainland, the necessary building up of the sand peninsula into a road to the island, and the erection of the small span bridge.

Before negotiations can be completed on the park project, consent must be obtained from the owner of the private property which the road on the mainland would traverse. Owing to this factor, no official confirmation has been given at this time to the actual carrying out of the project. However, the three Government delegates expressed enthusiasm for the plans as laid so far, and it is likely that construction may get underway this fall.

The Grain Storage Problem

Some figures have been published about the storage of grain which exaggerate the difficulties ahead. The facts are that the total storage capacity of all country and terminal elevators is around 450 million bushels, allowing for working space. On August 1st there were 302 million bushels of grain occupying that space, so there are 150 million bushels of space available now. Making all the necessary calculations taking into account this year's crops, carry-overs and probable sales, it seems that at the worst there will be not more than 100 million bushel of all grains that cannot be stored in country and terminal elevators by July 31st next, as distinct from the 400 million that some people seem to have calculated. But new annexes in the country are being built and off-track storage is being sought and, of course, the Wheat Board and the Grain Trade may sell more than the 665 million bushels of all grains which they sold last year, which additional sales would, of course, reduce the lack of space by July 31st next.

Farmers, however, will have a problem to store their grain on their farms until there is sufficient room in country elevators and annexes to take it in during the crop year. It would be good business for farmers to build permanent grain storage buildings on their farms this fall to always have room for a heavy crop whether country elevators are plugged or not.

Who Wins?

We have often wondered just who, if anyone, win a strike. We are inclined to think that everyone—the striker, the employer and certainly the consumer—is in the long run the loser.

A strike is something like a war; neither side really wins.

In the loggers' strike in British Columbia, for instance, which ended recently after some 45 days, it has been estimated that each day of the strike cost the employer a million dollars while for each day the strikers lost a half a million in wages. Only strikers with families received strike relief. Who pays for the cost of the strike and for the increase in wages (much less than was demanded) won by the members of the union? Ultimately, the consumer pays all.

That's why every citizen of Canada has a stake in every strike; that's why differences between unions and employers should be settled as far as possible by negotiation before, rather than during, a strike.

Even when strikers gain everything they demand, it may take them a long time to recover wages lost during the strike period. It looks as if strikes are just "bad medicine" for curing economic ills.

At a time in history when apparently only the strength of democratic nations is warding off a world-wide war, it seems to us that strikes may be regarded as economic "sabotage". In addition they do not help out the cost of living situation which affects every Canadian citizen.

Price Decline

The decline in the price of steers during the past year has been around 20 per cent. Hog prices have dropped 22 per cent. The cause is the outbreak of foot and mouth disease and the closing of the U.S. market.

The dairy industry has also suffered. About 55,000 head of dairy cows would have been exported to the United States this year were it not for the embargo. The milk from this stock has backed up on the local market. Much of this milk has gone to cheese factories, which already are facing the problem of disposing of a surplus product normally exported but barred by both the United States and the United Kingdom market this year.

Liquor Advertising

By T. W. PUE

There is a philosophy of some governments that works something like this: "What the people don't know won't hurt them." It is the very opposite of our hard-won acceptance of the idea "Let the People Know," and in no better way is this idea worked in Alberta than in refusing to allow weekly papers to publish Liquor Advertising.

The idea behind the advertising ban is that if liquor is advertised more of it will be drunk. Carrying this idea a step further, it must be obvious that the drinking of liquor is an immoral practice. So far the argument is logical, but what is illogical is that for the Government to sell liquor is not immoral, otherwise they would pass a law in righteous indignation to halt the liquor traffic in the province.

T. W. PUE

Immoral Literature
Now we know, by deduction, that any paper carrying no liquor advertising is good and moral and any paper or magazine that has in it sales messages enticing you to buy this brand of wine or whiskey or beer or the other kind, is bad and immoral.

Right off the bat you can classify this paper as one that is good and moral. We may be poor, darn it, but we're pure. Just let us suggest in one line of type that Calgary Beer (not Ginger Ale) is the Best and our new address will be Fort Saskatchewan. So we stay on the straight and narrow and stay out of jail.

Therefore, gentle reader, you can relax in the sure knowledge that your morals remain untainted as you read the advertising columns of this weekly paper, printed in Alberta, by Albertans, for Albertans.

You can't classify us as editors of immoral literature or yourselves as immoral readers.

They Read It Anyway

But banning the running of liquor advertising in Alberta papers doesn't keep those people who want to read it from subscribing to outside periodicals that publish this advertising.

I wonder if Mr. Manning or any member of his cabinet subscribes to Time, Life, Toronto Saturday Night, Newsweek or Liberty magazine? If you check a copy of one of these publications you'll see a liquor advertisement on just about every other page. Is it right for Government leaders to have one set of reading standards in their own homes, and another set for the printers of the province?

Actually, anyone with the price can subscribe to papers and magazines printed outside the province, and read all the liquor advertising they want to their hearts content. So the ban on liquor ads running in Alberta papers is quite useless from any point of view, and results in the Alberta printing industry being kept at an unfair disadvantage to the industry in other provinces.

Beer On Ice

You can readily see that the absurdity of the ban on liquor advertising in Alberta papers is emphasized by the flood of such advertising from British Columbia. In Ontario a beer manufacturer in Toronto successfully advertised his brand of beer by going into the ice business!

It seems, he would deliver ice with the beer, and, supposing his beer was called Feller's, you could readily see beautiful painted street car signs commending you to the remarkable qualities of Feller's Ice.

J. V. McAree, writing in the Toronto Globe and Mail, described it thusly:

"Until then we had supposed that ice was ice, that one kind of ice was like another in appearance, temperature, weight and all other physical dimensions, and we wondered what special features were represented by Feller's. Had it perhaps a coffee flavor fortifying its natural tastelessness? Or some special perfume, maybe? Later over the radio we heard it plugged. The announcer said 'Use Feller's ice'. The last word was an almost inaudible murmur, but there was a terrific emphasis on the name of the brewer for by this time we had learned that what was really being promoted was not ice but Feller's and Feller's beer. This is quite legitimate if somewhat silly. It is quite possible that it has increased the sale of Feller's ice and also his beer. Even if so far as his ice is concerned the advertising is a dead loss he may pick up his profit on the beer sales. Perhaps something like this was necessary to call attention to it for we confess that up to this time we had never heard of either Feller or his beer."

The ban against liquor advertising is a hypocritical stand for any political party or any government that reaps $12,000,000.00 annually from liquor profits. It is designed to hoodwink the dregs on the assumption that if they don't see liquor advertising they'll be lulled into a false idea that the liquor traffic doesn't exist.

In Canada there is so much hypocrisy in our treatment of the liquor problem that the matter of advertising may seem insignificant. But if this silly ban on advertising were rescinded the whole business would operate, so to speak, in the open.

Let's have "Let the People Know" instead of "What they don't see won't hurt them."

Voice of the People

THE DANGER TO FREEDOM

In a pamphlet circulated along with electric bills, is quoted an editorial from the "Taber Times." The writer states, "The demands of the people themselves are encouraging our governments to gradually take away some of these freedoms, and this is what is perturbing us."

Freedoms are the greatest and most valuable of the inheritances that our ancestors have bought for Canadians; they certainly must not be jeopardized. Some of us have felt, at times, that the vote or will of the majority, as recorded, was not to the best interests of the people, yet we can hardly believe that freedom can be best protected by so-called "all wise" minority forcing their will on the majority; This would then indeed be a dictatorship. It must be accepted that in a democracy the "demands of the people" will take precedence, and in the end be best.

Many people honestly fear that as the people through their government build a welfare state, that the freedom must decline in proportion, but of course freedoms are restricted and must always be restricted in a collective society, other wise we have anarchy.

Concern for freedom is commendable, but whose freedom is threatened if the people as a majority through their government decide to carry electricity to the farm without cost to the individual farmer? If the several governments of Canada spend $1,300,000 in social security in 1952, it is certainly not the widow, the aged or children whose freedom is threatened. If the government institutes a National Health Plan for all citizens, it certainly is not the freedom of the sick or disabled that is in danger. Canadians are able, and will preserve their freedoms, but it is also certainly true that without security there is no freedom worth the name. Freedom is no substitute for an empty pocket-book or stomach.

Franklin Roosevelt once said, "Political freedom cannot survive long without economic security. The test of progress is not whether we add more to those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have little." Mr. Roosevelt after leading the U.S. people into the "New Deal" program was returned to power in ever known in U.S. history, 531 electoral votes out of a possible 533. In his inaugural address, he stated "I assume the solemn obligation of leading the American people along the road which they have chosen to advance. Mr. Roosevelt was leading the people on the road to economic democracy, but he died before his task was completed, and the notorious 80th Congress took over. This Congress, as is well known, was under the domination of Big Business, and today over 50 billionaire power groups with 700 lesser corporations exercise a sort of economic super-government in American business circles. It is not the 25 to 30 billions net profit they annually extract from the people, but more dangerous are the tenacles of power controls which they exert over every phase of American industrial life. They destroy the safeguards of competition and dictate many times the government's policy.

Canada, yes Alberta's economic life are affected by these forces also. The claws are now largely hidden in the velvet of government spending for armament, social security loans and instalment buying or inflation, but make no mistake about it, they are there—only by entrusting our government with a balancing power and democratic support can freedom's gains be held.

Growing Fall Rye

In Western Canada, Fall Rye is generally considered a poor cousin of our more important cereal crops—wheat, oats and barley. In recent years, however, the interest of farmers in growing fall rye as a cash grain crop has increased appreciably.

Although fall rye can be grown successfully on all types of soils, it is probably most suitable for the lighter lands in the drier areas of Western Canada. Like all other cereal crops the highest yields are obtained on fallow land. However, damage from winter-killing is much more likely to occur on fallow than on stubble land.

Date of Seeding. The highest yields of grain have been obtained by seeding fall rye between August 15 and September 15. Indications are that September 1 is the most favorable time for seeding on light soils. The date of seeding on stubble will depend upon moisture conditions. Unless there is sufficient moisture in the soil to support a fair growth in the early fall, seeding of rye should be delayed until near freeze-up.

Rate of Seeding. Extensive tests at the Experimental Station, Swift Current, indicate that the rate of seeding of fall rye should be from 3/4 to 1 bushel per acre. The rate of seeding on stubble is the same as for a crop on fallow. The best depth of seeding is from 2 to 3 inches. Very deep seeding or seeding in loose ground should be avoided, for it tends to increase the amount of damage from winter-killing. When seeding fall rye on stubble it is not necessary, nor generally advisable, to work the land previous to seeding. If any tillage operation is undertaken before seeding, machines should be used which will tend to leave all the stubble in an upright position. This will help to hold snow on the land and to control soil erosion.

How Can I Get Money To Improve My Farm?

You know there are certain things you could do on your farm to make it yield bigger profits. You'd like to have more home conveniences and comforts, too. You could do both, if you had the money. But where is it to come from?

The answer is simple: Imperial Bank of Canada will lend you the money on a Farm Improvement Loan for the following purposes up to the limits shown with a maximum of $3,000.

(1) Farm Implements. For buying tools, implements, movable appliances and machines for the farm or farm home, up to two-thirds of the cash purchase price.

(2) Foundation or Breeding Stock. Up to 75% of the estimated cost of the stock.

(3) Fixed Equipment. For buying and installing fixed electrical or other equipment, implements, appliances or machines, up to 66% of the cost.

(4) Electric System. For altering or improving your farm electric system, up to 66% of the cost.

(5) Fencing or Drainage. For ditches, tiling, drainage, pumping, diking, soil erosion prevention, up to 75% of the cost.

(6) Farm Buildings. For repairs, alterations or additions to the farm home or other buildings, up to 80% of the cost.

(7) Farm Development. For sewage or water systems, clearing, irrigating or reclaiming land, soil conservation, shelter belts, up to 75% of the cost.

REPAYMENT. You repay the loan in monthly, quarterly, or annual installments over periods up to seven years, according to type and size of loan, with simple interest at 5%.

Tenant farmers may get loans for (1) and (2) above, and if right of tenancy extends two years beyond term of loan, for (7) also. Your local Imperial Bank Manager will be glad to help you with a Farm Improvement Loan. Why not discuss it with him today?

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I have recently come to live with my daughter and her family and she and her husband seem to resent my giving them any advice about things in which I have had a great deal of experience.

I have reared seven good healthy children and feel that I know how it should be done and when I see her making mistakes I feel that it is my duty to show them to her so that she won't have to learn the hard way as I did. But instead of appreciating my interest she resents it and has been rather rude in some of her remarks. Should I keep quiet and let her go on making mistakes over and over? I don't know what to do.

GRANNY.

Answer:

If there is one thing unappreciated in life it is advice given by an older generation to a younger one and since you are not in your own home but living with your daughter, your wise plan is to keep your advice to yourself unless it is asked for.

I agree with you that we could save our children many mistakes if we could get them to understand that we made similar ones, when we were young and know how to meet some situations in a better way now. But young people have to find out these things for themselves.

On the other hand, some of us have gotten into a rut and have not kept up with new ideas and new ways of doing things. We cling to old ways because we have failed to find out the whys and wherefores of the new. So let us approach these changes with an open mind and perhaps we will find that some of our advice is not as valuable as we think it to be.

But be that as it may, the proper thing for you to do is keep quiet and to try to give as little advice as possible.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

My daughter is trying to make some money for her church by baby-sitting but I dislike the idea of her going into the homes of perfect strangers. I do not feel that it is a safe thing for her to do. What do you think about this?

MOTHER.

Answer:

I agree with you and I should certainly not allow her to go anywhere that I was the least bit dubious about the people or the one who was seeing her safely home.

LOUISA.

WHAT'S IN THE NAME?

By STEVE GUSHTA

BEVERLY

Beverly was established as a village on May 22, 1913, with Mr. G. C. Bergman as the first overseer; and was incorporated as a town on August 5, 1914 with Mr. Bergman being the first mayor. Previous to being established as a village, the community was part of the Sturgeon Municipal District No. 548.

This community was first established when the Humberstone Mine was opened in 1896. Later, persons employed in Edmonton built homes in Beverly to evade the restrictions imposed by the city's building regulations.

The town was named after Beverly, in Yorkshire, England which was the former home of R. R. Jamison, who was general superintendent of the C.P.R. in Calgary at that time.

Beverly is situated on the east boundary of the city of Edmonton and has a population of 2,150 persons.

One service station and garage combined; 2 cafes; 6 general stores and a few other business places make up the town of Beverly. There are no grain elevators even though farming is the main type of occupation carried on within the region.

ARDMORE

Ardmore, 11 miles east of Bonnyville was named after the school in the district. The hamlet is located in a farming region and it would be well to note that there are five Ardmores in Scotland and two in Ireland; its name origin could well have been taken from these.

One time I was helping a lady with her housework, and new on the job. My mistress had to go down town on business late in the afternoon and asked me to get supper. She said there was hamburger in the ice box and fat for frying in a coffee can on top of the ice box. I prepared the hamburger in the frying pan and poured some of the contents of the coffee can in for frying, and put it on to cook. It was lucky for me that she got back in time for supper. That hamburger was not eaten. It was tasted and she said, where did you get the fat for frying. I said, in that coffee can on the ice box where you told me. Well, she looked in the can, and it was soap she had melted and set there. She had taken the can of fat away by mistake, and left the soap can there. Was I embarrassed! Mrs. M. Magistad.

Out of the science laboratory comes a crystal of such hardness and brilliance
"It out-dazzles the diamond."

YOU MAY NOW HAVE this gem of pure crystalline elegance set with exquisite grace in jewels of Gold, Palladium, or Platinum, for 1/10th the price you would pay for diamonds of the same size. HERE IS WHAT THEY SAY:

READER'S DIGEST, October, 1950

"An amazingly beautiful gem, not quite as hard as a diamond BUT FAR MORE BRILLIANT."

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, April 10, 1950

"This gem has a refractive index (brilliance) appreciably above diamond." (Diamond 2.42, Tanya 2.62)

TRADER AND CANADIAN JEWELLER

"Tests for permanent brilliance, approximating sixty years' wear by Industrial Research Laboratories. Its brilliance was not IN ANY WAY affected . . . it remained unchanged."

THE STAR WEEKLY, February 2, 1951

"The new wonder gem of Science combines the lure of the Mediterranean, the fire of the opal, the spring green of the emerald with more sparkle than diamonds."

TIME MAGAZINE, February 26, 1951

"In some respects the new Tanya Gems are better than the real thing", they surpass diamond in sparkle and "fire."

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF JEWELLERS ASSOCIATION

"Its 'life' and beauty cannot be approached by the diamond for it has much more 'fire' than a diamond has ever shown. Tanya is a re-created natural crystal of incomparable brilliance and 'fire'. Dr. F. W. Pough.

Local Resident Attends Archery Tournament

LAC LA BICHE — Herbert Erickson went to Calgary for the 8th Annual Provincial Archery Tournament on Sunday, August 31 and September 1.

There are four different events, the Target, the Field, Clout and the Flight Shot.

The Target Shoot consists of three different distances. The target consists of American round 30 arrows shot at 60 yards and 30 at 50 and 30 at 40 yards. This is called a single American. They always shoot a double American and highest score wins, and consists of 180 arrows, or 180 shots.

The Field consists of 56 targets placed different distances through the woods, anywhere from five yards to 80 yards. They shoot four arrows at each target which makes 224 shots.

The Clout is a distance of 180 yards. The target lays up on the ground and is 48 feet in diameter; 36 arrows are shot. The Flight Shoot consists of three arrows shot by each archer. The one who shoots the further distance wins.

The target is four feet in diameter, consisting of five rings.

The first outer ring is white and counts one, the second ring is black and counts three, third ring is blue and counts five, and fourth ring red and counts seven. The bulls eye is gold, counting nine points, and is nine inches in diameter. The four rings are four and seven-eighths inches wide.

This is Herbert's third year to attend the archery tournament, and he hopes to bring home at least one of the trophies.
